determined effort is made at the outset to break through Princeton's lines. After a tremendous fight the Princetonians with dismay behold the gigantic Heffelfinger make an opening through which McClung is carried for five yards. Princeton fights hard, but the Yale army pierces their center, while the wearers of the orange and black begin to wonder what manner of weakness has suddenly come over their center and rush line. Another fight, and Yale advances two yards and then with a great hurrah the ball is snapped back to McCormack, while the rush line, lights Princeton down and makes an opening through which McCormack makes the first touchdown. Bedlam is turned loose. Yale flags, umbrellas and ribbons are flying high on every side and a yell goes up that pierces the clouds. Score: Yale, 4; Princeton, 0.

Capri Reported Tired of Omce.
BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The old story that Chancellor Von Capri has become weary of the cares of office and intends to offer his resignation to the Emperor was again circulated today and for the time caused considerable excitement among the public, although official circles paid little attention to the rumor. The Deutsche Wochenschrift is responsible for the revival of the rumor, but from no official source can any confirmation of the story be obtained.

keen, clear judgment in buying, and unfatiguing zeal in the prosecution of an honest, legitimate trade enables us to place before the public a well-assorted line of carpets and floor coverings of all kinds; also a fine selection of portiers, silk and lace curtains, drapery, silks and muslins, with tassels and fringe to match. The above goods, together with various other lines, will be found to compare favorably with any other house, both as to quality, price and artistic design. W. E. BROWN, 521 S. Spring.

Thirty-seven Thousand Spectators Witness the Contest—Scenes of Excitement—The Game Hard Fought from Start to Finish.
By Telegraph to The Times.
NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—[By the Associated Press.] Yale, 19; Princeton, 0! The greatest athletic event of the year is over, and long will it be remembered by the thousands who saw one of the finest football games ever played in this country. It was a fight on its merits, and the best team won. A great throng began to gather before the gates were opened at 10 o'clock, and soon after all manner of vehicles began to arrive. Tally-hoes crowded with shouting students were to be seen on every thoroughfare leading to the grounds. They were draped in blue and draped in orange and black. But whichever color it was, the noise was just the same. From every row of seats fluttered orange and black flags and blue flags, and it was difficult to tell which color was more prevalent. Many women, so that there would be no mistakes as to their sympathies, wore blue costumes, while others, and particularly a bevy of handsome brunettes, wore striking costumes of orange and black. The first person to take a seat in the grand stand was a handsome young woman who wore an immense yellow chrysanthemum. She occupied a seat in front, and when the Princeton boys saw her they howled loud and strong.

Princeton seeks her only salvation in punting, and makes a desperate effort, but cannot accomplish anything. Her team cannot repulse Yale's steady attacks. They get the ball off for side play and Homans again resorts to punting, but the ball goes out of bounds and McClung pounces on it. "Hard luck!" say all Princetonians in a chorus. Heffelfinger makes a frantic rush, but the ball is snapped back to McCormack, who makes one of the prettiest plays of the day. From the thirty yard line he kicks a goal from the field. It takes Princeton by surprise. Rain is now coming down in torrents, but cannot quench the enthusiasm. Score: Yale, 18; Princeton, 0.

Mataafa Continues to Stir Up Rebellion in Samoa Against King Malletton—Natives Dissatisfied with the Taxes Imposed.
By Telegraph to The Times.
LONDON, Nov. 26.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] A curious story is made public which appears to show that the Vatican has had an emissary in the household of the Prime Minister, Lord Salisbury, he, of course, being ignorant of the fact. The story comes from a lady who recently visited Hatfield House. She was struck by the face of the man employed as major domo, and after racking her brain for sometime, remembered that she had seen him before at the Vatican in the garb of an Italian priest. He had shown her points of interest in the Vatican and she is sure he is identical with Salisbury's servant. He noticed her scrutiny of him and decamped from the Hatfield household before she could tell the Premier. The latter appeared much put out, but said little. Members of his family have come to the conclusion that the man was a Jesuit agent who had got into the house for the purpose of discovering secret matters concerning the Vatican.

Opera at Windsor Castle.
LONDON, Nov. 26.—By the Queen's command Mascagni's opera, Cavalleria Rusticana, was produced at Windsor Castle by the Royal Italian Opera Company from Shaftsbury Theater. All the scenery was transported from London and set up in the castle, and the opera was produced with the most punctilious regard to detail. The audience was composed of the royal family and a number of peers and peeresses.
Murderous Plot on Shipboard.
MARSEILLES, Nov. 26.—The mail boat from Constantinople brings a report of an unsuccessful conspiracy among certain passengers to kill the vessel's chief officers. While in port eighty Albanian passengers quarreled and the police were summoned to quell the disturbance. After the vessel sailed the Albanians plotted to murder the captain and mate. The plot was discovered and the conspirators arrested and turned over to the police at Salonica.

The grounds were not in good condition. The rain of Monday had left more marks than could be covered up by the little sawdust on hand, and yesterday's game between Pennsylvania and Wesleyan had left the turf badly cut up. The rain which fell today did not help things. It ceased entirely before the game began, however, and everyone was happy. Fully 37,000 persons were in attendance before the game was called.
At 2 o'clock Princeton won the toss and chose the west side of the field. Symmes, the giant center-rush of Princeton, had the ball, and as the players drew up he snapped it back to King, the star quarter-back. Quick as lightning the famous "V" trick is played, and amid wild cheers Princeton is recorded eight hard-fought yards. Again Symmes shoots the sphere back and Flint makes a dash only to lose five yards, when down by the great Heffelfinger. Homans now gives his friends the first sight of his ability as a kicker and sends the ball like a shot thirty yards into Yale's territory. McCormack catches it in clean style and it is snapped back to Yale's captain, McClung, who amid a storm of cheers makes one of his famous runs and records a gain of fifteen yards. He is finally thrown heavily by Vincent of Princeton. Bliss, in a great spurt, makes five yards and soon another gain, but is downed by Vincent.

Princeton made a desperate fight with the "V" trick. Flint and Poe trying their hands, but neither advanced and time was called with the ball in Yale's territory. The scene and sounds cannot be described.

CORNELL BEATEN IN CHICAGO.—The Northwestern Championship.
CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—[By the Associated Press.] Ten thousand shivering football admirers saw the Chicago University eleven beat Cornell today by a score of 12 to 4. It was a great game and was won by Chicago by good work. Cornell was strong as a team. Her best player, Galbreath, was hit in the face by Alvord and compelled to quit. Two Chicago men were ruled off for foul tactics, and altogether the team distinguished itself by disregard of rules. Scarcely a member of the New York team escaped injury of some sort, and nearly every one of them closed the day with blood on his face.
MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Nov. 26.—The University of Wisconsin won the Western intercollegiate football championship today by defeating the Northwestern University of Evanston—40 to 0.

French Miners' Strike.
PARIS, Nov. 26.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Labor troubles in the Department of Pas de Calais, where, owing to the strike of 49,000 miners, the mining industry has been brought to a standstill, has as a natural result caused consumers of coal to look elsewhere for fuel. The miners of the Department du Nord, adjoining Calais, struck this afternoon. It is believed that unless the operators generally make some concessions to the miners the strike will assume enormous proportions. Large quantities of coal from German and Belgian mines are arriving at Du Nord to protect manufacturers against a coal famine. But it is believed that this is part of the surplus and that foreign miners are heeding the request of the French miners to limit the output to the actual requirement of the home trade.
THANKSGIVING ABROAD.
LONDON, Nov. 26.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The Vienna correspondent of the Times says: "Thanksgiving day was appropriately observed by the American legation. A reception was given in honor of the occasion to-night by Mrs. Grant, wife of the United States minister." The correspondent, in praising the wife of Minister Grant, says: "It is not too much to say that if there ever was a lady able to make Americans and English forget their differences and consider themselves one family it is Mrs. Grant."

Another Berlin Bank Failure.
BERLIN, Nov. 26.—Berlin was startled today by the failure of the Berlin Banking and Exchange Company. The police closed the head office and branches. Herr Loewy, head of the collapsed concern, has been arrested. It is stated that when the police took possession of the office and the branch offices no cash whatever was found. Herr Loewy's brother-in-law and partner has also been arrested. The firm has been in difficulties a long time. The failure, however, is regarded as of only minor importance.
The Odessa Exhibition Abandoned.
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 26.—It is announced that the government has abandoned the projected national industrial and artistic exhibition at Odessa in 1893, the occasion of the anniversary of the founding of the city. The reason given is that the country's financial position makes it inexpedient to make the necessary outlay to render the exhibition a success.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

The Library Entertainment—Gift Social—Briefs and Personal.

The library entertainment at the Hotel Cummings Wednesday evening was a success. The hall was hardly large enough to accommodate more than 100 spectators, but those who succeeded in getting seats enjoyed an excellent programme. The introductory numbers were furnished by Misses Ethel May Fairbanks and Coral Z. Harrison.
Mrs. W. E. Beeson and Prof. J. Brenner. The principal event of the evening was the presentation of a sidesplitting farce comedy in two acts, the title of which was A Box of Monkeys.
The various parts were well sustained by Misses A. B. Fairbanks, H.
J. Elliot, Cassie Metteln and Messrs.
Harry Masac and C. Mortimer Fairbanks. The entertainment was provided by Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings and the proceeds went to swell
the funds of the Library Association.

The cable company has put in a switch at the ball park, for use in switching relay cars when needed to carry passengers to and from games in the future.

A "thank-offering social" is announced for Friday evening at the Methodist Church. An offering of an apple or a potato will be required of all who attend, the accumulations to be sent to some needy clergyman in remembrance of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Judge McComas has returned from an extended trip through the South and East, having been away about two months.

C. Thomas, formerly of this city, now interested in some mines at Placerville, is in town and a guest of Officer
D. E. Gridley on Gallardo street. Mr.
Thomas left here just at the close of the boom, and now expresses himself as greatly astonished at the substantial growth of Boyle Heights and the city generally.

J. C. Porter of Joliet, Ill., is registered as the latest arrival at the Cummings Hotel.

What with carrying the 3000 or 4000 people who attended the game at the ball park, and providing transportation for the many who preferred to witness the dedicatory exercises at the Orphans' Home, the cable company was yesterday taxed to its utmost, and every available car and dummy was put on the road. Some necessary delay was experienced, of course, but on the whole the transfers and transits of passengers were quickly made and very satisfactory.

The union services at the Presbyterian Church yesterday were largely attended and passed off very pleasantly.
The Thanksgiving sermon by Rev.
George Henning was a masterly effort,
and he was ably assisted by local pastors, Rev. Gillian and Rev. Young.

Science in Bread-making.
At the recent annual meeting of the American Chemical Society, held in Washington, D. C., the question of the value of carbonate of ammonia as a leavening agent in bread, or as used in baking powders, came up for discussion, in which Prof. Barker, of the University of Pennsylvania, and president of the society; Dr. Richardson, late of the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington; Dr. William Mc-Murtrie, late Professor of Chemistry in the University of Illinois; Dr. E. H.

Bartley, late chemist of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Board of Health and Professor of Chemistry of the Long Island College, and others, took part.

The consensus of opinion was overwhelming in favor of the employment of ammonia. It was stated as a fact that ammonia rendered the gluten of the flour more soluble than the original gluten, and the bread in which this action was produced by carbonate of ammonia must be more digestible and hence more healthful, and because of the extreme volatility of carbonate of ammonia and its complete expulsion it is one of the most useful, most healthful and most valuable leavening agents known.

These conclusions are borne out by the very elaborate and exhaustive experiments made by Prof. J. W. Mallet, of the University of Virginia, which show conclusively that bread made with a baking powder in which 1 per cent.
of carbonate of ammonia is used, in conjunction with cream of tartar and soda, is not only of uniform better color and texture, but a product more wholesome, because the ammonia serves to neutralize any organic or lac-tic acids present in the flour.

A GREAT DAY'S SPORT.

Los Angeles Won. Everything in Sight.

The Lacrosse Match Captured by the Home Boys.

The Riversiders Knocked Out by the Decisive Score of 5 to 1.

The San Francisco Baseball Team also Defeated by a Score of 7 to 5—
Amateur Game at Santa Monica.

Los Angeles won everything in sight yesterday from a sporting standpoint.
The visiting baseball team was cleaned out by a score of 7 to 5, and the Los Angeles Lacrosse Club beat the Riversiders team four straight games out of five, notwithstanding the fact that the teams are about evenly matched, but the Los Angeles boys were put on their metal from the first, for the reason that the Riverside club imported a couple of professional players a short time ago for the purpose of winning yesterday's game.

With the exception of three or four heavy players the Riverside club is composed of school boys, who are hardly heavy enough to stand off the trained athletes of the Los Angeles club, but they played a more scientific game than did the Los Angeles club, and it is safe to say that they can stand off any club of even weight in this country of any other.

They won but one goal and that was an accident, for the ball was not put through the goal in the usual way. It was thrown by a Riverside player and fell on young Lyon's back and bounded through the goal, thus giving the club the only goal. This game, however, would not have been won had the Los Angeles club been captained.

It is true both clubs have captains, but neither club was captained on the field yesterday, and for that reason the players were bunched a number of times, in consequence of which some bad playing was done.

Mr. Kannon is captain of the Los Angeles club, and had he pulled off his coat yesterday and looked after his men as he should have done, the game would have been more rapid and more goals would have been made. Both clubs have competent captains, and it is to be hoped that they will do their duty when the next match game is played.

The game was called in the Los Angeles Athletic Club's new grounds, on the corner of Seventh and Alameda streets, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. On account of the failure of the electric road to repair a break at the power-house night before last, no cars were run early in the afternoon.

As a number of them did not know that they could reach the grounds by the Second street line there were only about 2000 spectators present. This is only the second game ever played in Los Angeles, and at the first game
there were only about a dozen ladies present, but yesterday's audience was composed principally of the fair sex, and their excited faces showed during each game to what a great extent they enjoyed the playing.

The Riverside team is composed of I.
S. Kennedy, captain; D. McGrath, goal keeper; J. S. Castleman, umpire; Harry Perry, Charles Dole, Casey Castleman, Fred Copely, George Cox, R. T. R.
Strange, J. Lyons, W. C. Mott, W. D.
McDonald, Joe Kennedy, Clyde Daniels and Carl Derby, spare men.

The Los Angeles team is composed of Dr. M. M. Kannon, captain; W. Bessing, umpire; Charles Welcome, goal keeper;
Dr. McDonald, T. J. Osgood, H. Eberly,
J. P. Ward, J. C. Fullerton, A. C. Mc-
Carter, Alex Stewart, A. C. Way, E. J.
Robertson, Mr. Culbert and Mr. Hewett, spare men.

B. Benjamin acted as referee.

FIRST GOAL.
The first goal was played in nine minutes and was exciting from beginning to finish. The Los Angeles boys were a little timid at first and played as if they believed the Riverside team would have a walk-over, but McDonald, Way, Robertson and Culbert soon gathered themselves up and for five minutes ball was worked and one goal to the other at a lively rate. Finally Way got it, and quicker than a flash he passed it to Culbert, who sent it through the goal like a flash. The Los Angeles boys were delighted with their victory, for many of them were of the opinion when game was called that the Riverside club would win every goal.

A rest of ten minutes was then taken and the second game was called at 2:40.

THE SECOND GOAL.

This game was red hot from the start.
In the first contest for the ball Kennedy of the Riverside team met with an accident which caused a delay of four minutes. He was running with the ball, but before he could throw it he was surrounded and in the scuffle a lacrosse stick caught him on the head and ball was worked and one goal to his face. He was soon patched up and the game went on. In this game Dr.
McDonald got in several of his famous throws, but Copely of Riverside is a good match for McDonald and between them they kept the ball flying from one goal to the other. In the wind-up of this game Culbert again got the ball and put it through the goal, giving the Los Angeles team the second game in 12 1/2 minutes.

THE THIRD GOAL.

This game was very lively and was played in seven minutes. The Riverside boys were becoming desperate and it could be seen from the start that they were determined to win if possible.
Little Lyons of Riverside was here,
there and everywhere, and outplayed
even the professionals of his club.
Some of the Los Angeles boys were beginning to show the effects of the hard playing, but they braced up towards the end of the game, and had a captain been on the field to encourage them and give orders at the right time the result might have been different. Daniels of Riverside got the ball and, running like a deer for the goal, was headed off and made one of the best throws of the day. The ball fell on Lyon's back, who was standing near the goal, and it bounded through the goal. The Riverside boys were loudly applauded and accepted the honors gracefully.

THE FOURTH GOAL.

This was the longest and most exciting game of the five and both clubs did some fine work. The best players in both clubs seemed to gather themselves up for a final effort as the time for closing the game was drawing near.
Some hard falls were received on both sides and blood was drawn from more than one player before the game was won. McDonald and McCarter of the Los Angeles team did some excellent work, and McCarter put the ball through the goal in seventeen minutes after the game was called.

THE FIFTH GOAL.

This game was played in sixteen minutes and won by Los Angeles, the ball being put through the goal by Culbert.

Lyons of Riverside made several fine plays, and would have won the game on at least two occasions had he been better supported. Both teams showed signs of hard work when the game was concluded, and as the Riverside boys had but forty minutes to make the train it was decided not to play another game, and the audience was dismissed.

Both clubs were given three cheers,
and the game was declared a success.

BASEBALL.
First Game of the San Francisco-Los Angeles Series.

A large crowd attended the first street baseball grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the first game of the series between the San Francisco and Los Angeles teams, fully 3000 people being present. The game was closely contested throughout and resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 7 to 5. Following is the score:

A LONDON CLUB DINNER

HOW A NOTED MANAGER GOES TO WORK TO PREPARE A FEAST.

Some of "Uncle" Sam Ward's Gastronomic Comments on the Feasts of the Ancients—A Club That Pays Great Attention to the Subject of Eating.

Old "Uncle" Sam Ward, a famous American gourmet, was a reliable and learned authority on everything that was fit to enter the human stomach. He had studied that complex and wonderful organ profoundly, had dined all over the world—"Up all languages," as he said—and confessed to having irrigated his capacious throat with 17,000 bottles of good, sound wine in his life of seventy-three years or thereabout. This "grand old boy"—for he was young in heart, spirit up to the day of his lamented death, and his intimate and devoted friend, Lord Rosebery, felicitously termed him the "Uncle of the Human Race"—well, he once assured me that he could obtain as satisfactory a dinner at a first rate London club as was to be found wherever civilization had set its foot. "Uncle" Sam was only too ready to oblige me on the dinner of today, but had ransacked the archives of the British museum for records and dates on ancient and oriental feasting. To any one feeling an interest in gastronomic lore it is a privilege to listen to the old gourmet pour out his wealth of information.

"I have often thought it a pity," he was wont to declare, "that the menu of the great historical feast that Cicero gave in honor of Julius Caesar has not been handed down to posterity. If we are to believe the accounts that have reached us, Cicero expected his illustrious guest, the ill-tempered and grumbling but it turned out that Caesar was in flowing spirits, did full justice to the sumptuous dinner, and even ate more than was good for him."

ROMAN AND GERMAN COOKERY.

"There is a close affinity between the Roman and German cookery and festive habits," continued Mr. Ward. "I believe all that now remains of Roman gastronomic art must be sought only in modern Germany. The agro-dolce sauces, by which the former was characterized, still distinguish the latter. The odd commingling of meat and fish, of sweet fruit sauces with meats, the use of the lemon juice in their dishes, certain viands having boiling vinegar poured over them as they are ready to be served, and the variety of sausages, including those made of fish, which are said to have been invented by the Emperor Heliogabalus, all suggest a Roman origin."

"Though the light of the kitchen fire was probably the brightest spot in the Dark Ages, yet as its reflection has not come down to us, we can only conjecture that the barbarian kings would feast, as they did everything else, coarsely and ravenously. The Continental nations, however, preserved traditional traces of Roman luxury and eastern festivity, extinguished by a long series of invasions and disasters, revived in a much more agreeable form under the Saracens. An old writer relates that the cook of an inn served a poisoned shoulder of mutton on a silver platter, and Mohammed, remarking, with a cynicism almost modern in character, 'If he is a prophet he will discover it; if he is an impostor, no matter what becomes of him.'"

BUT if I were to recall all of the utterances of my old friend Sam Ward, I should leave myself little space to write of the Century club in Grafton street, London, where I dined recently. This club might with truth be called "The Millionaires' club," as many of its members are the representatives of the haute finance of two hemispheres.

HOW AN ARTIST GOES TO WORK.

One of the objects of the Century club is to afford Englishmen and Americans opportunities to meet together in social harmony, and the outcome of this association among the men of light and leading of two great nations must be in the highest degree beneficial to both. Such a select club, it goes without saying, must be managed with care and the most delicate discrimination. The choice of manager has fallen on M. Alphonse Gerard, who for a quarter of a century has busied himself intelligently with catering, and who for many years has been connected with the gastronomic administration of the largest European hotels. M. Gerard studied under M. Blot, who was the trusted chef of the late Emperor Napoleon; and the manager of the century avers that he has served dinners and looked after the creature comforts of most of the crowned heads of Europe.

M. Gerard is a composer, and has determined that the Century shall be known for its original dishes and for plates that are served nowhere else. He abandons in many respects the theories laid down by his gastronomic predecessors, and handles his well chosen materials after a method of his own. He believes in simplicity and selects ingredients of the plainest description, discarding much of the old fashioned traditional cookery book instruction as inoperative and confusing. He sits down at a table, draws pen, ink and paper toward him, and remains in a condition of studious deliberation for some time before he puts pen to paper.

He outlines in his mind the general character of the dinner that is to be served and some of its leading features. Having recorded all this in black and white, he fills in details, arranges and rearranges the succession of attractions, adjusts their relations to each other, and then summons his chef, Signor Bavelino. In the course of his discussion with this officer some slight changes may be made, and finally the menu is complete.

THIS CLUB A STIMULUS FOR COOKS.

Good cooks are said to be as sensitive as good artists. Without proper appreciation they will not show their finer, more cultivated qualities. However conscientious they may be, they require their stimulus for any brilliant exertion.

An accomplished chef does not care to serve up his compositions for the delectation of uneducated palates any more than a musician would think of playing the grand symphonies of Beethoven or the dainty, dreamy sonatas of Chopin if he should be asked to discourse melodies for a Chinese audience accustomed to the rule sounds emanating from a noisy cymbal.

At the Century club the manager and his chef are always sure of a sympathetic audience. Dislike is discussed as the cabinet of a government discusses bills and measures. The result is the eating rapidly to reduce the number of persons in Philadelphia. This method of dispersing bacteria we do not care to discuss for obvious reasons.

But we draw the line when this high-handed Dr. Ege denounces as deadly and devastating "the pernicious habit of kissing on the lips."

It is about time that these bacteriological persons were given to understand that they have reached the end of their tether. We have had enough of them. Long before they were, kissing was. It is an amusement handed down to us from a fabulous antiquity.

For the youth of all time it has possessed an irresistible charm. And it is likely to stay with us as long as there shall remain in the land one solitary pair of lovers. Dr. Ege may break up the custom in that remarkable town of his, but he will never persuade the youngsters of this broad land that kissing on the lips is pernicious.

WOMEN'S WORK FOR THE FAIR.

Achievements, Plans and Incidents in the Progress of the Lady Managers.

The announcement made a few days ago that women physicians will be given official and professional recognition at the exposition was received with the attention the importance of the fact deserved.

Dr. John E. Owen, medical director of the exposition, in compliance with a request from the president of the board of lady managers, has promised to place women upon his professional staff and that they shall in all respects rank equal with men in the exposition hospital.

This is beyond question the most potential result so far of the influence of the board of lady managers, although that has already given an extraordinary and unprecedented stimulus to many things in which women are vitally interested. It cannot fail to convey a profound and world-wide conviction of the substantial and permanent character of the benefits accruing to women from the board's efforts.

There will also be a model hospital in the woman's building. This is, of course, separate and distinct from the official hospital of the exposition, of which Dr. Owen is director, being rather in the nature of an exhibit. It will, however, be fully equipped with physicians and trained nurses, a veritable model hospital, prepared to handle the gravest cases of accident or illness, and here women will find another magnificent opportunity to show their skill in the divine art of healing—in that field where delicate touch and tender sympathy have fullest scope.

Adjoining the model hospital, and in connection with it, will be the department of public comfort, which promises to become a novel and important feature of the World's Fair. In this room will be couches and hospital beds for such cases of indisposition or accident as do not require serious or regular medical attention. Here old persons, invalids, sufferers from sudden faintness, swoons or hysterics, children who are temporarily indisposed, weak people of all ages needing rest, and a spot in which to lie down, will find what they want in this room. A moment's reflection will reveal the excellence of the arrangement. It is scarcely possible to over-estimate its value, in view of the innumerable exigencies arising from the hurry, confusion, consequent exhaustion, and unavoidable accidents attendant upon such crowds as will come to the World's Fair. The weary pilgrims to the Centennial, and to the Paris Exposition who fell by the wayside can fully appreciate the plan.

It is further contemplated to extend the department of public comfort throughout the entire exposition, by establishing branch rooms in all the main buildings. The Director-General has favorably considered a proposition to this effect, and although no official action has yet been taken in the matter, it is reasonably certain that these branch rooms will be established. They will be duplicates of the main room in the woman's building and used for similar purposes, thus greatly relieving the pressure upon the exposition hospital. All these rooms will be under the management of the board of lady managers.

Mrs. Paul, lady manager for Virginia, has written an interesting letter to Mrs. Logan touching the colored women's exhibit at the Exposition. The letter says:

"As a lady manager for the State of Virginia, I shall cheerfully do all in my power to promote the interests of all the colored women of my State. I consider that they have the same rights and are subject to the same regulations as white women exhibitors."

"As the board of lady managers is the recognized official channel of communication through which all women or organizations of women must be brought into relation with the exposition, we have no right, as we have no intention, to discriminate against women of any race or nationality."

"I shall take pleasure in giving to the colored women of my State all the information and assistance possible, by sending them the publications of our board, and in every other way striving to promote their interests."

SEVEN HUNDRED MILLIONS.

The Tide of Prosperity that the Farmers Bring to the Country.

[New York Evening Telegram.]

Seven hundred millions of dollars—$700,000,000, equal to a good-sized national debt—this is the increase in the value of this year's crops in the United States over that of the crops of last year.

The estimate is that of Jeremiah M. Rusk, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, yet it is probably correct. Certainly it is approximately correct. Wisconsin's bluff old ex-stage driver may not be much on figures, but he can tell a hawk from a henshaw when the wind's not nor'west. That beyond question is the direction of the favoring financial gales that are filling the sails of all legitimate business enterprises in this country at the present time.

Seven hundred millions! It is a goodly sum. It will scatter relief and comforts and blessings and independence and courage in endless succession among the series of rightful possessors into whose hands it goes. It is not merely so much money. It is not as if so much value had been withdrawn from one class in this country to endow another class, or from one quarter of the world to endow this quarter of the world. This is no undergarment, no compensating loss, to balance this enrichment. It is, so to speak, so much out of nothing. It is substantially all clear profit, as it is derived from pretty nearly the same acreage and the same tillage and the same ownership as were invested in agriculture in this country last year, with whose produce this increase in value is compared. So it is, as it were, something out of nothing, or rather so much of unconditional gifts from the beneficent hand of Providence, that now come into the lives and affairs of the most numerous, the most essential, and the most deserving order in our social structure. It is in this instance, a favoring Providence who has not only made two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, but has multiplied nearly all this nation's staple crops.

All the several classes into whose hands this largess of nature comes will share in its blessings. First, the farmers. For all time to come the present generation of farmers will have occasion to gratefully remember the harvest of 1891. It has brought them a permanent accession of ease, independence, dignity, contentment and respect for their vocation. It has brought them a new power to pay their debts, a new schooling for the boys, cosier and more gracious, if not stouter, horses, and, let it be hoped, more leisure, more appreciation and less drudgery for those real heroes of this land, the farmers' wives. Better tilth, a more generous and systematic mode of cultivation for all time to come—though not, we trust, a more reckless acreage—the fruits of this fat year will have brought to the soil whence they sprang.

Then there are the farmers' creditors. These will be the immediate partners in his prosperity. First among these are the merchants of the vicinage—the provincial merchants. These will be fully paid. Their trade will be enlarged. Their credit will be strengthened. Then, too, the whole series of agents of mercantile exchanges in the various cities will participate in these new impulses. From thence the impulses will extend to every branch of manufacture. It is, in the last analysis, the prosperity of the farmer that makes the wheels of trade, of finance, of transportation, and of industry go round.

And so the railroads will be kept busy from this time on, carrying off surplus produce of the soil seaward for the feeding of hungry Europe, and carrying merchandise, the produce of mills and artisans, back to the farmers, who are their main consumers. Railroads that have been perhaps somewhat over-extended will now catch up. Those that have been wisely located and that are prudently managed will augment their dividends and improve their plants. The speculative market for railway investments is in fact the very first to catch and indicate the approaching breezes of a general and wide prosperity.

Here, also, will be registered, from another direction, a notable sign of the improvement in the American farmers' estate. The immensity of this year's crops, accompanied as it is by sustained and even improved prices, will induce all thrifty farmers to either pay off or reduce their mortgages. Already we have noted the estimate that $200,000,000 of farm mortgage indebtedness will have been paid by this year's crops in but two of the Northwestern States. This process will, in one way, prove disturbing to Eastern creditors. It will put them to the necessity of finding new fields for their capital. It will impart new energy to mercantile and industrial enterprises. It will constrain capital to go more confidently into railroad and bond investments. This will enable railroads easily to provide enlarged facilities for the stress of business before them.

So the hastiest glance around the commercial horizon shows the many and innumerable ways in which this single prosperous crop and crop market bring vast and lasting benefits to all classes of American citizens.

Six Good Seamstresses Wanted in the Cloak Department.

There has never been a house in existence in this city that could show in the space of ten months the increase in sales that we can show, and this increase has all been done on less expense than we were paying last year. In the management of all political campaigns there is always a lot of hangers-on. They stand around, look wise, and, by their looks, one would suppose they owned the earth with an extra wheel thrown in. These hangers-on cost money, and they are no good. This element has all been cleaned out. Every person connected with this house today is a worker, and they are loyal to the house. They show extra attention to the wants of the patrons of the house. They show goods; are anxious to please; and this is not forced upon them. There is nothing but harmony between employer and employes, and in all departments the increase is the most satisfactory, and today we claim to do the largest dry goods business in the city. This house has quadrupled sales in cloaks and has done the largest cloak business ever done in this city. Look at the expense. Two regular hands. When busy others were called from the different departments to assist; the rent was merely nominal; the expense for selling cloaks very light; moderate profit; good treatment; no importuning to buy, and the largest sales we ever had in cloaks. There is a doubling up of sales in dress goods. The principle upon which each and every employe is working today is to see who can give the best attention; who can do the most to please the patrons of the house; and then marking all goods at a moderate profit makes the sailing plain for the future.

THE STRANDED SINGERS.

A Benefit to Enable Them to Leave Town.

They Have Been Provided for Until Monday Night.

Several Exciting Incidents at the Theater Last Evening.

Female Members of the Chorus Making It Lively for the Manager—Threatening Demonstrations—The Doctor's Statement.

The chances are that the members of the Columbia Opera Company, which went to pieces on Wednesday last, will manage to pull out of town after all, as Manager Wyatt has promised to liquidate their bills for board and lodging up to Monday night next, and has kindly tendered them the use of the opera-house, free, for a benefit concert, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the payment of their fares to San Francisco. Meanwhile Herr Hirschbach, the musical director, will conclude arrangements with the management of the Orpheum Theater for the accommodation of most of the members of the ill-fated company, a tempting offer having been made in the shape of a permanent engagement.

There were several exciting incidents at the Opera-house last night, several female members of the chorus making it extremely warm for the unfortunate Doctor who brought them down from San Francisco, but refused to take them back. One woman, especially, created a scene, her feelings having been worked upon by the receipt of a telegram to the effect that her child was dying at San Francisco. She notified the Doctor publicly that she would not be answerable for the consequences did she not leave town today.

It is evident, however, that Dr. Alexander does not intend to spend any more money upon this his first operative venture.

THE DOCTOR'S STORY.

Dr. Alexander or Hodghead, in his interview with a Times reporter, stated that he found the company, from the prima donna down to the lowest singer, "flat broke" in San Francisco. That they came to him with the proposition that if he would pay their expenses to Los Angeles, where they had a guarantee engagement, and then advance them money enough to pay their bills at San Francisco, they would repay him by allowing him to take the first money they made, with an additional 20 per cent. of their earnings as consideration. Accordingly, a contract was drawn up to that effect and signed by every member of the company. He then paid their bills and expenses to this city. After their arrival here he complied with the terms of his contract to the letter, and had the performance been carried out Wednesday night would have returned perfectly satisfied. As it was, however, he claims that Hirschbach, the musical director, who acted as mediator for the rest of the company, went to the principals and induced them not to sing by stating that the chorus had refused to do so. He then went to the chorus and told them that the principals would not sing, and so induced them not to appear. By this means Dr. Alexander Hodghead claims that he was defrauded out of his money, and he announced his intention of prosecuting Hirschbach should he find upon consulting legal advice that he had violated any of the criminal statutes by his actions. The Doctor insisted that he had paid all the bills up to Wednesday night, and that as far as he was concerned his liability had ceased, and that in fact he was "out of pocket" by the transaction. He also stated that the members of the chorus disclaimed all knowledge of the contract with him, although they had signed it, as it was written in English and was utterly unintelligible to them. Should the Doctor's story be true, and there is no reason to doubt it, the blame for the whole affair would appear to rest upon Hirschbach's shoulders.

E. W. Webster vs. San Pedro Lumber Co.; services. The Feeding Habits of Sharks.

[Forest and Stream.] During the summer of 1887 there were in one of the aquaria of the United States Fish Commission at Woods Hole, Mass., three sand sharks, each about three feet long. They became very tame, taking chunks of fish, or whole fish of convenient size, either alive or dead, from the hand, just as a dog will; but one had to be careful of one's fingers, as it mattered not to the sharks whether they took fish or flesh. There was never, to the writer's knowledge, a tendency on the part of these fish to turn on the back to take food, nor could one imagine a necessity for so doing under the circumstances.

In a large walled tidal pool outside, however, there were several large sharks, about six feet in length. These were fed by fish taken from the pound-net close by. When the fish were thrown in the sharks quickly gorged themselves with the dead and with the injured ones which could not swim well; but they did not seem to catch anything alive once with which the pool was well stocked. They would dart after them, sometimes rolling completely over, but the fish were generally able to escape by darting close to the wall and into some woodwork supporting steps arranged around the pool. It is probable that the sharks would have had better success in the open water, as they were unable to move very swiftly for fear of striking a wall. As they were not fed regularly, they sometimes became very hungry.

The writer took much interest in watching them and found that, at times at least, they took quite as much interest in him. At all events when at high tide the water was on a level with the step on which his feet rested, the sharks would come up so close, turning on one side and smiling so benevolently, with a "come-in-out-of-the-water" expression, that he was fain to get up a step higher, as a matter of precaution at least. Whether they were but asking in their way, as other fishes do, to have some fish thrown them, or whether they were thirsting for human blood can only be conjectured. They were not of the so-called "man-eating" kind. It was inferred, however, from those observations that their actions in taking food were, and likely would be, controlled by the character or the position of the prey. There is nothing more probable to the writer than that in attacking a larger fish, a school of fish, or a man, they would come up beneath to prevent escape, and considering the position of the mouth nothing seems more probable than that they would at times turn on their backs. It is a mere question of expediency, however, and not necessarily a fixed habit. For an object of small size it would not be necessary.

When Cleaners.

Next to St. Sophia we have heard most about the dogs of Constantinople. When we counted 200 dogs in an hour's drive in Damascus we thought we could see nothing that would surprise us in canine numerals. But Damascus does not begin with this city, especially in the old part, as in Stambul. At times they are the street, making it yellow and furry for two or three rods. Again, dogs lay stretched, singly, in the middle of the street asleep, and carriages and foot travelers went out of their way to pass them for hours, rather than trouble to move them. Puppies ran about at will, and dear little things they were too.

These dogs are not a fine breed. Their hair is coarse and rough, and their bodies thick and heavy. But they have good, mild faces, gentle eyes, and, as for attacking any one, it seems never to enter their minds. Cats, too, are plenty, and often is seen a happy family of dogs, cats and chickens sharing the street with perfect good nature. The dogs are the street cleaners. At night, when refuse is thrown out from the houses, they have high feasting, and by morning nothing but what can be easily carried away in baskets or on donkey back is left. They belong to nobody, and would live a happy and care-free life did they not sometimes get many injuries. The howl of a dog sounds every few minutes even in Pera, and it is not rare to see torn ears, bleeding eyes and scratched, hairless skin.—Cor. Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Sleepers. The author of "Bulgaria Before the War" says that the Turks devote to sleep any spare half hour that may happen to be at their disposal. At night, he says, all his companions would be in the land of dreams within ten minutes, while he lay wide awake and envious.

He continues: "It has often struck me with astonishment to see the little respect any one in Turkey pays to sleep. When he is staying in the villages I have often heard the members of the family get up, and after searching about among his sleeping companions, arouse them all to ask where his tobacco was, or upon some equally slight excuse."

"A lad of eighteen would thus wake up his father, a man of sixty, perhaps, two or three times in the night, and yet there would never be an angry word of remonstrance; and when I have snapped savagely at some one for walking into my room and over my body in the middle of the night my snappings have caused the greatest astonishment."

Many times I have turned in with natives in the same room with me, and though I was generally tired and my companions not, yet I think I may say I was invariably the last to close my eyes."

Fill the Lungs Daily. Cultivation of deep inspiration in breathing is of the greatest value wherever there is a predisposition to any lung trouble. Half of the world never use the lower part of their lungs at all, thus lessening very materially their chances of resistance to any disease of the respiratory organs. In such dangerous and sudden illness as pneumonia, for instance, a celebrated physician has affirmed that the chances of life would be much greater if the patient had been in the habit of fully filling all the lung cells when in health. A little daily breathing practice will do much to teach the proper use of the lungs and have invaluable results in the future, and is certainly well worth the ten minutes devoted to the exercise daily.

There is a little instrument called a "spirometer," which is used for the purpose, but an ordinary quill of straw, or a glass tube, is about as efficacious. Draw in the breath slowly until you count a deliberate fifteen, and exhale the air for the same length of time. At first a decided sensation of fatigue will be experienced when ten times are counted. Increase by degrees until you are able to take twenty deep inhalations without difficulty. This done every day will surely broaden and deepen the chest, and greatly increase the power of the lungs.—New York Tribune.

The Siberian Register. There is an administrative regulation in force in most Siberian penal settlements requiring political exiles to appear at the police station daily, semi-weekly or weekly, and sign their names in a register. The intention, apparently, is to render escapes more difficult by forcing the exile to come, at short intervals, to the local authorities and say, "I am still here; I haven't escaped." And as a proof that he hasn't escaped they make him sign his name in a book. It is a stupid regulation; it affords no security whatever against escapes; it is intensely humiliating to the personal pride of the exile, especially if the authorities happen to be brutal and unscrupulous; and more heartburning and exasperating than any other regulation in the whole exile code.—George Kennan in Century.

A Terrible Fault in Vienna. The Austrian lady of station is acquainted with every detail of the cuisine. A story is told by Viennese ladies of another who, having neglected this branch of her education, allowed at a great dinner party in which she gave two dishes of the same color to be served in succession—a fault for which no excuse could be made.—Vienna Cor. New York Post.

A THANKSGIVING FEAST.

The largest, and perhaps the jolliest, Thanksgiving party in the city, took place yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. rooms on Broadway. The large reading room was transformed into a dining-room and eight long tables fairly groaning with Thanksgiving delicacies were surrounded by 125 young and middle-aged ladies and gentlemen. The company were the guests of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. and representatives from nearly every State in the Union sat down to enjoy together a genuine New England Thanksgiving feast. The handsome souvenir menu cards which adorned each plate were embellished with an elaborate bill of fare, and sandwiched between each of the six courses were appropriate quotations, arranged with special industry by Messrs. F. M. Porter and W. D. Ball.

After ample justice had been done to the viands, F. M. Porter, the toastmaster, called the attention of the guests to the fact that "Discourse is heavy fasting; when we have supped, will we demand the rest of thy story," and the following sentiments were responded to with a jocularity which caused many a ripple of laughter to pass round the festive board. "Our Hostesses—The Ladies' Auxiliary" found a graceful recognition from W. D. Ball, secretary of the association. H. W. Duncan responded in a half humorous, half pathetic style to "The Boy Away From Home," and D. C. Barry roared to "The Friends Left Behind," with special reference to one.

George Dunlop waxed positively eloquent over "The Smiling Beauties of Los Angeles," but there was a dead pause when the toast, "The Young Benedict" was called, and the guests commiseratingly and silently drank to the health of him who dined that day with his mother-in-law. The last sentiment, "Our Thanksgiving," met a happy response from Edwin B. Hayes, and the company rose, after a two hours' sitting, from the cheerful board. The hospitality of the ladies met with just appreciation from the happy guests. The fragments of the feast found their way to the Newsboys' Home on East First street.

THANKSGIVING PICNIC.

A picnic on Thanksgiving day would be a rather dreary affair in the East, where the sleigh bells are merrily jingling now, but it is quite possible to enjoy this out-of-door entertainment in Southern California.

Yesterday a party of a dozen or more went to Long Beach and ate their Thanksgiving dinner on the beach. The company included Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Prussia, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rader, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Preuss, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. George Stekel.

The marriage of J. M. Carson of this city and Miss Katie Smyth of San Francisco took place last Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Cathedral in that city.

The ceremony was performed at 9:30 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Thomas Prendergast, V.G. The bridal party consisted of Miss Ida Smyth, maid of honor, in white India silk, trimmed with red lace and pearl ornaments; bridesmaids, Miss Mary Carson, in pink silk crepe; Miss Mabel Peters, in white India silk, trimmed with Chantilly lace; Miss Fredericks, in pink bengaline silk; Miss Frances McDewitt, in white faille fraise, with duchesse lace trimmings; Miss Emily Proll, in pink crepe; Miss Minnie Burdett, in pink crepe; the best man, George Carson, brother of the groom; ushers, Messrs. J. B. Gorman, H. Sullivan, Martin Aguerre, Escherich of Los Angeles; and the bride and groom, the former in cream surah silk, trimmed with mousseline de soie; ornaments, lilies of the valley and diamonds.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the California Hotel, where congratulations were received and the wedding breakfast partaken of, after which the entire company was photographed.

The presents received by the happy couple included a set of diamond earrings, necklace and cufflink pin from the groom; much silverware and bric-a-brac; a handsome floral vessel, four feet in length, sent up from Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson will visit Monterey and other resorts before coming to this city, where they will reside at the Dominguez Ranch, the home of the groom.

A CHRISTENING PARTY. A very pleasant gathering took place at the residence of Mr. F. Peppé, at 112 South Hill street, last Sunday. The occasion was the christening of his second son, which had taken place in the usual impressive style at the Cathedral at 4 p.m.

At about 8 o'clock the thirty invited guests sat down to a sumptuous repast and, assisted by generous draughts of "Vino de Fulcrum," managed to do it ample justice. As is customary with our friends of the Latin race, the festivities wound up with dancing and were kept up until the wee small hours of the morning.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Licastro, Mr. and Mrs. G. Zell, Mr. and Mrs. S. Cerelli, Miss Sophy Cerelli, Mr. and Mrs. G. Meia, Mr. and Mrs. Carresi, Mr. and Mrs. Palma, Mr. and Mrs. Mosvold, Mr. Lazaro, Mr. and Mrs. Paoli, Messrs. Casturro, Fontana, Camillo, Mulreori, Virodromo, Pelletiri, Amuno and others.

TOPICS OF THE DAY CLUB. The third meeting of this club was held at the residence of Mrs. D. H. Luther on Thirtieth street Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance, and the two topics, "The Long School Vacations" and "Roads in General" called forth a very lively and animated discussion. The latter question proved highly interesting, to the ladies especially, who complained that the streets of the city were monopolized by car-tracks, many of these being so far above the level of the street as to require a very skillful driver to cross them in safety. As to the country roads, they were decidedly condemned. It was asserted that there was not one good drive out of the city, nothing but dust and chuck-holes. It was unanimously decided that the people generally should bestir themselves in this matter, and try to remedy the evil.

The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Nolan, No. 632 East Twenty-ninth street.

A FAREWELL RECEPTION. Rev. Dr. Hamma, who so acceptably filled the pulpit of the English Lutheran church of this city during the illness of his pastor, left last week for the East. He will be engaged in lecturing during the winter. Mrs. Hamma remaining in this city. Just previous to his departure the members of the Lutheran church and Dr. Hamma's personal friends tendered him a little farewell reception at the home of Mr. Getz on South Hill street. As a slight testimonial of regard the reverend gentleman was presented with an elegant dressing gown and a valuable attachment for the lantern which he uses for throwing views on the screen in his stereoscopic lectures. Mrs. Hamma was the pleased recipient of a set of silver souvenir spoons.

Dr. Hamma is a man of wealth and philanthropically devotes his time to assisting needy churches. During his nine months' ministrations here he won many warm friends and devoted admirers by his cordiality and his scholarly genius as a pulpit orator.

Mr. J. A. Muir has returned from a visit at Sacramento.

Last evening a surprise party was tendered Miss Edith Furry at the residence of her father on Ingraham street. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and dancing. Refreshments were served and at a late hour all departed in high spirits.

The extent to which the body can be mutilated without a fatal result is beyond what most people think. Of course, the removal of the largest limb is a familiar fact, and, indeed, the successive removal of all the limbs would result in nothing worse than inconvenience. But in the same way internal organs may be extirpated. This is facilitated by their ductility.

One eye may be taken out and the sight remain practically unimpaired. One kidney may be removed, and the other will make up the loss by doing double work. The case is essentially the same when disease has destroyed the functional activity of a kidney, and therefore a person in that condition need not be without hope.

In like manner, disease may have rendered one lung solid, like liver, and thus functionally useless, and yet the person may live in good health to old age. Could the half consumed lung of the consumptive only heal up the walls of its great ulcer, and the microbes cease to extend their ravages, the patient might, with care, enjoy a long, useful and happy life.

Large portions of the brain may be removed with no injury to life or intellect. Persons have lived for years and been well with bullets in the brain. The liver has been cut in two by tight lacing—the pressure causing an atrophy of the part below—without ending either the life or the folly of the fashionable devotee.

A portion of the intestines has been cut out and the severed ends sewed together, and their normal action and function have not been in the least interfered with. And what seems more amazing, dogs have had their entire stomachs extirpated without impairing digestion.

Recently a man fifty-seven years old had a large portion of his stomach cut out in consequence of a tumor. The piece was nearly a foot square. The severed parts were sewed together, and the patient ate a dinner of hash twelve days after the operation and was dismissed cured at the end of three weeks. Five months later he was presented before the medical society—the Royal Society of Physicians of Vienna—wholly well, with no trace of the return of the cancerous disease, and with digestion perfectly performed.—Youths' Companion.

Every Man May Be a Vanderbilt. The life of Commodore Vanderbilt affords singular scope for reflection on the immense possibility of a great business capacity to amass a large fortune in a few years, especially in this country. From being the possessor of a rowboat on New York bay, he rose in sixty years to be the proud possessor of $60,000,000. William H. Vanderbilt, his son, obtained $75,000,000 of this, and largely increased the fortune before his death.

It has been truly said that any fool can make money, but it takes a wise man to keep it. William H. Vanderbilt's ability was signally displayed in keeping intact this great fortune, besides adding easily once as much more to it. He made special mention of Mr. Vanderbilt because he was not a speculator, in the true sense of that term. He was first and for all time an investor. And every man in this great republic has the privilege of walking in his footsteps.—Henry Clews in Ladies' Home Journal.

Lamb's Cottage. Although it is now nearly sixty years since Charles Lamb died, the little cottage in which he and his sister resided at Edmonton shows but slight evidence of any external change. Situated a few yards from the railway station, the house, with its gable facing the roadway, its red tiled roof and windows, its narrow doorway and small paneled windows, gives the impression of Old World comfort and seclusion. A rowan tree, on the branches of which hang clusters of red berries, stands at the gateway, and its appearance imparts a pictorial attractiveness to the interesting building, which is still known as "Lamb's Cottage."—Pall Mall Gazette.

GIVEN TO
DR. WOH,
The Eminent Chinese Physician.

No Opium or Poisonous Drugs are used in my Practice.

Herbs and Medicines of Absolute Purity constantly on hand and for Sale.

Dr. Woh's life work has been from early youth one of persistent and untiring observation, study and investigation, as fully as lay in his power to perfect himself in all branches of the art of healing human sickness and disease. Born in China, of influential parents, of a family whose ancestors have been for generations deservingly renowned as leading physicians, Dr. Woh naturally followed in the footsteps of his fathers. In China he has practiced his profession for several years, being at one time a physician in the Imperial Hospital, and in America for a long time. His great number of patients, his wonderful and many cures, and the great list of letters from grateful and thankful patrons now prove him to be a remarkable and successful healer of sickness and all diseases.

For a long time I have been suffering with bladder and kidney troubles. No doctoring or medicines seemed to do me good. I consulted the best physicians and surgeons in Los Angeles city. They gave me morphine and drugs, but no relief could I obtain. After suffering great pain and having my passage almost entirely blocked, I turned to Dr. Woh. Today I am perfectly well. I do consider Dr. Woh the most successful physician in Southern California.

April 30, 1891. S. L. STEELE, 316 and 318 S. Main St., Los Angeles, Cal.

I have tried many doctors for heart disease but have derived no benefit until I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, terminating in asthma. The doctors said there was no hope of my recovery, but that a change to California might prolong my life. February last I came to Santa Barbara, a desolate soil, shelter from cold winter winds and freedom from the white frosts of lower areas.

Dr. Woh is the oldest and best-known Chinese Physician in Southern California. His many cures have been remarkable, involving Female Troubles, Tumors and every form of disease.

Free consultation to every one and all are cordially invited to call upon Dr. Woh at his office.

Extraordinary Counterfeiting. Perhaps the most surprising curiosities in the treasury scrapbook are proofs of certain plates which appear to have their surfaces scratched and battered to the most possible extent. The plates were those of the famous 7-50 bonds, executed by Charles H. Smith and printed by the American Bank Note Company. The occasion of a great lawsuit against the government. Such works of art were they that no question of their genuineness was raised until Jay Cooke & Co. forwarded $84,000 worth of them to the treasury here for redemption. Although Mr. Casleair declared them to be genuine, it was claimed that they must have been printed from the original plates made by the treasury, and on the strength of that assumption suit was brought by Jay Cooke & Co. against the government. The cause was lost by the plaintiffs, however.

Smith was the most remarkable forger that ever lived. For twenty years, while leading a life of the utmost apparent respectability, he produced counterfeit after counterfeit of the most marvelous character, both of notes and bonds, from $50 to $1,000. Probably not less than $1,000,000 of imitation money of his manufacture found its way into circulation. It was only the discovery of his association with the notorious plate printer, Brockway, himself a marvelous expert in his line, that Smith was arrested in 1881 in Brooklyn. Thus was broken up one of the most dangerous combinations against the national finances that has ever existed.—Washington Cor. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Those "Dear Dead Girls." The most beautiful of all the epitaphs of a tender kind is one to a Roman girl called Myla. It is so simple and direct and frank that it might have been written by Catullus. I must not attempt to translate more than a few lines: "The deep tomb holds you now unconscious. You can't get angry now and leap upon me, and show your white teeth in sweetly playful bites." So the inscription ends, and one feels that though Myla was not what she ought to have been, though she had never worn the yellow bridal veil, yet there was one man who really loved her and was sincerely sorry when she died.

There is another interesting epitaph on a girl who, like Myla, had died young. She is represented as lamenting her hard lot. "Oh, pleasant light of day!" she begins. "Oh, pleasant joy of living!" She tells that she had been a slave, and, with not unpleasing play on words, she begs for blessings on the mistress who set her free and gave her a place in the family vault.

Then she continues: "And you, O youth, whom the Phrygian land brought forth—lame to me! Your kindnesses were pleasant to me while I lived, and now are pleasant to my ashes."—Cornhill Magazine.

There are several kinds of peanuts in the American market. These are known as the Wilmington, the Virginia, the Spanish and the Tennessee peanuts. The highest grade of peanuts is the Spanish. The nuts are very small, but of a superior flavor and general excellence.—New York Office.

PEANUTS were first introduced in New York city about 1850. They were known here long before, but were never popular. America's peanuts have been exported to England, but the foreigners do not take kindly to the fruit. On one occasion a shipload of peanuts was taken to London, where it found no sale, was then reshipped back to New York city and sold at a handsome profit.

Co. E's Annual Ball a Brilliant Success.

An Interesting Point to Be Decided by Judge Ross.

SAN BERNARDINO.

The annual ball given by Co. E, Ninth Regiment, N.G.C., at the pavilion on Thanksgiving eve, was a most brilliant event and drew together the very cream of San Bernardino society. Extraordinary exertions had been made by members of the company to have the affair pass off pleasantly and successfully and the laborers were amply rewarded. Some days had been spent in decorating the large hall, and when the orchestra struck up the grand march it presented a beautiful picture. Immense red, white and blue streamers extended from the center of the roof to the balcony rail, and along the latter were also extended strips of the national colors. In the fore part of the stage the company's cannon held guard over the assemblage, flanked by stacked rifles. Behind these warlike engines were placed refreshment tables, large enough to accommodate several hundred, presided over by Charles Lindner. The band stand occupied a place half way down the hall.

When dancing began the floor was crowded throughout its whole extent and there would hardly have been room for one more set in the first lancers. All members of the company wore the National Guard uniform and among the fair partners were noticed some unusually pretty costumes. Col. and Mrs. Bryant opened the ball by leading the grand march and dancing was continued, until a late hour yesterday morning.

A number of visitors were present from Pomona, Riverside and San Diego.

A NICE QUESTION.

Judge Ross, in the United States Circuit Court of Los Angeles, will decide next Tuesday whether or not the Southern California Motor Railway Company shall be obliged to pave the streets between their tracks and for two feet each side on E street, which work has recently been ordered done by the city engineer.

The latter road, which also formerly ran up E street, has expressed its willingness to pay its share of the paving, but Receiver Polk said to a TIMES reporter that the grant of this character terminates when the grantee fails to live up to the provisions of the franchise. The company had voluntarily closed one road on E street, and he considered that the franchise was terminated by that act, and all liabilities of the company for the improvement of the road terminated.

Judge Rolf is confident of a ruling of the court in favor of the city.

The Union Thanksgiving Service—The Teachers' Institute Tomorrow—A Bold Robbery—Briefs and Personal.

[THE TIMES conveys the news of the world to Pomona 24 hours in advance of the San Francisco papers. The Pomona branch office and agency at Arnold's Pharmacy, Second street, where advertisements, orders for the paper and news items are received.]

The Chinese must go. The Superior Court has decided that the Recorder's Court is the proper place for the trial of the Chinese laundry case, and upheld the decision of the court to the effect that the city ordinance prohibiting the running of wash-houses on streets within prescribed limits is valid and that the Chinese have been conducting business in violation of this ordinance.

The Chinese will, therefore, have to get out of their present quarters, and they are making preparations to leave there. They will go one block east of the steam laundry, where David Hawkins and James Harvey will erect buildings for them. They expect to be in their new quarters by the last of January, 1892.

Mr. Bell has an office on the second floor in the Phillips Block, corner of Second and Thomas streets, and he and his wife occupy a suite of rooms adjoining the office, getting their meals at the hotel near by. When they returned to their rooms about 1 o'clock they found that the door had been unlocked and the collection of gold watch, chain and charm, two valuable rings and a purse containing about $4 in silver had been stolen. The officers were informed of the robbery, but they were unable to get a clew as to who the thief may be. As soon as the occurrence was noted about a number of rumors were started and several people became alarmed respecting the safety of their valuables.

How the Thanksgiving Day of 1891 was Spent.

A Spectrum of Beauty at Williams' Hall Last Night.

The Result of the Tennis Tournament Held Yesterday.

Mock Initiation by the Odd Fellows—Religious Service—Band Concert—Personal Mention and Brevities.

[THE TIMES is delivered and distributed in Pasadena at an early hour every morning. The branch office is at No. 50 East Colorado street.]

Yesterday was a typical Southern California Thanksgiving day. Bright, warm sunshine and a cloudless sky made the day climatically perfect and the religious services and various holiday festivities in Pasadena were attended by persons who seemed thoroughly impressed with the fact that they had better reason to give thanks and rejoice than any people under the sun. A brief account of the events of the day follows.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

The Tennis Club's tournament opened at the Walnut street court shortly after 9 o'clock. The court and grounds had been carefully cleaned up in honor of the occasion and presented a more than ordinarily attractive appearance. A convenience which was especially appreciated by the spectators was several benches of liberal proportions which the club had purchased so that there may be ample seating capacity for all who visit the club on tournament days.

Play opened with the men's singles. The possible entries were classified as follows: Gilmore, owe 15; Barry and Lindsay, owe 15 for 1 bique; Mellish, Pritchard, Shoemaker, May and Channing, owe 1/2 of 15; Bolton, Parker, Graham and Boyers, owe 1/2 of 15 for 1 bique; Thompson, Chouteau and Kinney, owe 1/2 of 15; Bell, receive 1/2 of 15; Ridenbough, receive 1/2 of 15 and 1 bique.

In the opening round Lindsay, Rogers, Gilmore, Graham, Chouteau, Barry and Bolton drew byes. Channing beat May, 6-5, 6-1; Gilmore beat Graham, 6-3, 6-1; Rogers beat Lindsay, 6-3, 6-1; Barry beat Chouteau, 6-3, 6-1; Thompson beat Chouteau, 6-3, 6-1; Barry won Gilmore by default. Channing beat Rogers, 5-6, 6-4, 6-4. This made the final match between Barry and Channing. Owing to the late hour but one set of this match was played, which resulted in Barry's favor, 6-3. The drawing in the doubles followed. But one set of this match was played, which was won by Barry and Channing over Lindsay and Graham, 6-2. The play will be completed next Thursday afternoon.

THE ALL SAINTS' FAIR.

Williams' Hall presented a very spectrum of beauty yesterday morning when the All Saints' Church fair was thrown open to the public. The interior of the hall had been very completely and artistically decorated with rich rugs, palms, pepper branches and flowers, which, as set off and brightened by the fair faces of those in charge, made the scene one of unusual attractiveness.

To the right, as one enters, is W. H. Hill's art gallery. This is a striking feature of the fair, and the wonder is that people are not asked to pay 50 cents instead of 10 cents to see it. The collection is a fine one, and the collection is loaned, this occasion only. Visitors are requested not to handle the specimens, as they have been gathered with great care and labor for the artistic taste of our people. The collection includes no less than 103 works, all more or less famous. Probably the most interesting portion is that which deals with local subjects.

This branch of the fair was liberally patronized yesterday, and when its merits are generally known the rush will be tremendous.

In the opposite corner of the hall is the tea booth, charmingly decorated in Japanese fashion. Here delicious tea is dispensed at reasonable prices, and the fair boys and girls are to be seen, and the rising sun and a ready sale. Either side of the hall is completely taken up with booths of one kind and another, and it would be simply useless to attempt a description of the variety and beauty of the articles displayed for sale. There is a candy table presided over by Miss Greenleaf, Miss E. H. Smith, and the domestic table and Mrs. E. C. Bangs holds sway at the baby table; the fancy-work table is in charge of Mrs. Littlefield, Miss Hurlbut, Mrs. Dady Decker and Mrs. C. S. Martin; Misses Armstrong and Virginia Rowland preside at the book table, where a large number of attractive holiday books—the generous gift of Andrew McNally—are being rapidly disposed of; Mrs. Torrance has charge of the bag table, and at the flower booth are to be found Misses Corbin, Hall and Reed, and the Misses Craig, Douglas and Sovereign preside at the boy's table.

A description of the opening day of the fair would be wholly incomplete without mentioning the turkey dinner which was served in the afternoon, and which was liberally patronized by the fair boys and girls. The dinner was complete, well cooked and served without confusion, and so popular was it that nearly 300 people availed themselves of the opportunity and ran the proceeds up for this one feature of the fair to $139. The ladies in charge of the dining-room and kitchen were: Mrs. W. U. Masters, Mrs. B. M. Wotkins, Miss Reed, the Misses Craig, Mrs. Dr. Shumway, the Misses Rigg, Mrs. D. C. Daggett, Mrs. C. S. Martin, Mrs. Lipincott, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Parkes, Mrs. Dr. F. F. Rowland, Mrs. Arthur, Miss McCall, Mrs. Bristol and Mrs. Adams.

In the evening a minstrel show was given by local talent under Mr. Kyle's direction. The ballads as rendered by Messrs. Pratt and Burnham, Prof. Kyle's solo, the jokes of the end men and the work of the chorus were all heartily applauded, and the performance gave general satisfaction. To-night the amusing farce "To Oblige Benson" will be given by the following cast: "Mr. Benson," Mr. Kyle; "Mrs. Benson," Mrs. U. Parker; "Trotter Southdown," Mr. Gilmore; "Mrs. Benson," Miss Helen Hill; "Mrs. Southdown," Mrs. Winslow.

The fair will close tomorrow night. The proceeds of the first day were entirely satisfactory.

OTHER EVENTS.

The union services held in the morning at the Tabernacle were largely attended. The programme as printed yesterday was followed. Rev. Mr. Garvin's sermon was one of special force and eloquence.

Colorado street in the vicinity of Fair Oaks avenue was crowded yesterday afternoon while the Pasadena band gave an open air concert. The musicians surprised their friends by the excellence of the music rendered. This organization has made really rapid progress, and its work seems to be appreciated by the citizens.

The ladies of the Methodist Church served a sumptuous repast at the Banning building, which received the liberal patronage it deserved.

Altogether the Thanksgiving of 1891 was a success in Pasadena, as THE TIMES predicted it would be.

JOLLY OLD FELLOWS.

Odd Fellows' Hall was well filled Wednesday evening on the occasion of the local lodge's entertainment and mock initiation.

The exercises opened with music and recitations by the Baldwin children of Los Angeles, whose talents have won them many friends in Pasadena. The youngest of the children was a special favorite and took the house by storm. Excellent music was rendered by Mr. Kyle, way on the violin, with a harp accompaniment played by a Los Angeles musician. Mr. Case and a visiting musician gave several duets on the guitar, mandolin and harp. Then came the mock initiation, which was conducted by six gallant guards, led by Capt. Case, otherwise known as "the chief watchdog of the outer

In front of the Ramona Hotel yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock the Salvation Army blocked the street so that a returning funeral procession could not reach the curb. The Army, when an attempt was made to move them, showed fight, but the leaders intervened and trouble was averted.

The City Council will meet in adjourned session this morning to further consider the street-sprinkling contract, and a lively session is anticipated. There is a great deal of feeling over the matter, and A. D. Childress is out in an advertisement offering to donate $500 to charity if any one can show that his bid is not the cheapest.

G. A. Dobinson met with an accident which might have resulted seriously yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, on Upper Main. He was out driving, when the horses ran away, breaking one of the hind wheels of the vehicle. The horses were caught before any damage was done. Two ladies were also in the carriage at the time, but no one was hurt.

RAILROAD AFFAIRS.

Mr. Huntington is Sharpening His Ax.

The Southern Pacific Officials Must Have No Side Business.

About That Timothy Hopkins and the Treasury Rumor.

A Double Loop on the Santa Fe Lines—A Big Season for Seaside Business—General Railroad Notes.

A. D. Wilder, superintendent of the western division of the Southern Pacific Company, is to be the next victim of C. P. Huntington's official ax, says the Chronicle. Mr. Wilder's head will roll into the basket on the 1st of January next, if not sooner, and another man will become superintendent. Mr. Wilder's removal will be the second of the kind made by Mr. Huntington since he became president of the Southern Pacific Company. He declares that he will have no man in his employ who does not give his undivided attention to the particular business which he is intrusted with, whether it be tapping car-wheels or superintending the railroad.

A. C. Bassett, superintendent of the Coast division, as is now well-known, lost his position because Mr. Huntington considered that he was too deeply interested in the affairs of the Loma Prieta Lumber Company. Mr. Wilder will lose his position because he is too deeply concerned about the affairs of the soda works at Oakland point. Mr. Huntington discovered Mr. Wilder's connection with the works about a month ago. Mr. Wilder was a silent partner with a man named Joseph Thomas, but not so silent but that Mr. Huntington heard of it. He called Mr. Wilder to New York, and Mr. Wilder's friends gave out the information that he was gone east for his health. It is now well known in railroad circles that Mr. Wilder had a long interview with Mr. Huntington, in which he undertook to show that running the soda works and running a railroad could easily be done at the same time without either business sustaining any loss through the division of time and attention. Mr. Huntington could not see it in that way and told Mr. Wilder that he feared he would have to dispense with his services. Railroad men say that Mr. Wilder is being made an example of to keep other employees of the company from entertaining the idea that they can carry on outside business and retain their positions with the company. So Mr. Wilder must step down and out. Who his successor will be is not yet announced.

A KITE-SHAPED RAILROAD TRACK.

"As kite-shaped tracks are becoming all the rage nowadays," said General Manager K. H. Wade, of the Southern California Road, "I would like to call your attention to one we will have on our lines when the belt is completed around by Mentone. When that is done we will have a kite-shaped track about like this," drawing a free-hand diagram, and trains can be made to run over the course in pretty good time, too."

SCRAP HEAP.

The Southern Pacific Company has made a computation of the business done in the way of hauling passengers to the seaside resorts of Southern California. It shows an increase of 22 per cent in the earnings over those for the same kind of traffic last year. The percentage of passengers carried is still greater, the rates being slightly reduced.

The report that the Southern Pacific Company is advertising for a man to take the place of Treasurer Timothy Hopkins is discredited by the officials of the road. And yet it is possible they do not know it all.

Offices have been engaged for the headquarters of the San Francisco Traffic Association by the Executive Committee. Traffic Manager Leeds and his assistants will hold forth in the Wells-Fargo Bank building. Rooms 10 and 11 have been rented and the carpets will be laid and the furniture put in place today.

It is understood that C. E. Kibbe, who will be the 1st prox. retire from the position of agent for the Missouri Pacific lines here, will take a responsible situation with the Southern Pacific Company.

A MYSTERIOUS LAKE.

A Body of Water Which Has Never Given up its Dead.

LANAMIN (Wyo.), Nov. 18.—[Correspondence.] A movement is now on foot in the neighborhood of Hutton Lake which will, in all probability, solve a mystery and show cause for a legend which has attached to the body of water ever since man has been in this part of the country. Hutton Lake is so sheltered that no winds ever ripple its surface, and it always presents the same dead, glassy appearance. Not only is it ever quiet, but it has the peculiar property of never giving up its dead. Time and again have human beings been lost in the still depths, but in no instances has the body ever been recovered. The Indians say the lake is the home of a monster which makes its prey of the animals which enter into the water. The first record of white men being lost in the lake was twenty-three years ago, when three men broke through the ice and were never seen again. Although the water was dragged not a sign of them could be found. Since then numerous others have been lost in the deadly pool.

About the middle of October M. B. Dawson, a prominent and wealthy man, fell into the lake, sank and was never seen again. The lake was dragged and a diver was sent for from San Francisco who searched the lake, but gave it as his opinion that the body was fast in the mud at the bottom. As there is an insurance of $27,000 on Dawson's life it is necessary that his body should be recovered. To this end arrangements have been made to have the lake drained. It is estimated that this work will cost $10,000 and it will take six months to complete the task. Engineers have been figuring on the work and the contract will be let at once. This move will attract the attention of scientists from all parts of the country, and it is expected that valuable information will be obtained from the bottom of this death trap.

THE EARTH TREMBLED.

Scenes of Horror in Earthquake-shak'n Japan.

Thousands of Homes Razed to the Ground and Obliterated.

Whole Villages Swept Away and Thousands of Lives Destroyed.

Scenes in the Hospitals—Caring for the Wounded—An Interesting Letter from a Lady at Tokio—Her Views.

TOKIO, Nov. 9, 1891.—[Special correspondence of THE TIMES.] No doubt you have had reports and telegrams regarding the terrible earthquakes we have been having in some parts of Japan for the past week. About 2 o'clock in the morning of October 30th Nagoya and the surrounding country felt the first severe earthquake shock witnessed in Japan for nearly forty years. Quakings, upheavals, openings and sinkings of the earth continued to take place with great destruction and loss of life, up to yesterday morning, November 8th. During the space of one week 6000 shocks have been felt, over 5000 lives have been lost. Thousands are wounded and suffering without proper food, clothing or shelter, with wounds still untreated, and no homes to go to. Thousands upon thousands of homes have been razed to the ground, and burned by fire caused by overturning lamps, stoves and other vessels containing fire. The wife of one of the mem-are running and no dispatches can be sent.

In one place 500 people were burned to death in one of the largest and most famous temples of that section. Nothing but the stone money box and the bones of the burned 500 were left. The foreigner, missionary and native have all joined together to raise money with which to buy clothing, bedding and other necessary things for the suffering, dying and hungry people. Temporary buildings and tents have been constructed, into which the dying and wounded are being carried that their neglected wounds may receive proper attention. The foreigners of Yokohama have raised several hundred dollars with which to buy material for dresses. The garments are cut and distributed among the mission schools, and the girls are making them up. Added to the groanings and moanings of the dying and wounded, and the shrieks of the terrified living, were the thunders of the earth opening up and receiving the living and the dead alike.

bers of Parliament living in that section, thinking to find more safety out of the house, ran from it only to be swallowed up all by the great changes of the earth, never to be seen again. The daughter, fearing death by the falling timbers of the house, ran out of it only to meet the fate of her mother. Neither of their bodies can be found. A man had the earth part, beneath his feet, and, falling into the chasm, it closed to receive him again, leaving only his head to be seen above ground. In a town called Mino, and in the county of Gifu, it was as if a mighty thud had come against the earth from beneath, then a mighty swelling of the earth, then a sudden sinking of it several feet. Large fissures were opened from which burst forth streams of water. The whole town of Mino then closing over them, imprisoning the unfortunate in one common tomb, until the great resurrection day. During the earthquake, Asamayama, one of the volcanoes which is constantly emitting volleys of smoke, sent forth much ashes and flames of fire. Yesterday's paper brings the report that a new fissure, more than 600 feet deep and 1000 feet wide, has been made in the extinct volcano of Fuji, and that the white smoke is issuing from it. We have witnessed only one shock in Tokio that could be called at all severe, and then no damage was done, although the shock was of seven minutes' duration. I say minutes, not seconds. Strange as it may seem to you, it is true, and during the next twenty-four hours the earth was frequently felt to tremble just as the lid of was thus sunk, and now a lake more than a mile long and half a mile wide covers the spot where but a few days past stood a thriving, bustling town. In Gifu another lake was formed four miles in diameter, wiping out every trace of life and leaving only the evidence of God's mighty power still made manifest by his creation. Telegraph wires are shaken down, many miles of railroad track are broken, and railroad bridges are badly damaged. No trains a boiling teakettle trembles. The motion was circular, and the only harm it did in Tokio was to make people dizzy and seasick. At the last report they were still having shocks and destruction by fire in the destroyed section. I send a few illustrations from Japanese newspapers. They may be of use to you. This is written in a great hurry, to get it off on this mail. L. ADELE PHILLIPS.

THE EAST SIDE.

Improvements at the Park—Thanksgiving Services—Notes.

Out in Eastlake Park some changes are going on. The new lake has been partially flooded and the large sheet of water at the lower end serves to give an idea of the future shore line and of the extent of the lake's area. The water margins have been ripped up, and the men are now at work on the large lily pond to be at the head of the lake proper. Work on the new $2300 conservatory is progressing finely, although it will take four or five weeks yet to complete the structure. There is much complaint on the part of visitors to the park, however, concerning the poor condition of the drives and walks, which have not yet been graveled, but are simply covered with arroyo sand. At the meeting of the Quil-vive Club on Tuesday evening it was decided to hold a social at Campbell's Hall on Tuesday of next week. The club now numbers nearly fifty members and is in a very prosperous condition. The commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the Boys' Brigade yesterday morning met a picked team from among the privates of the company. In a game of baseball at the Kibitz-street grounds. The game was for a friendly wager of a turkey dinner, which was partaken of heartily in the afternoon at the expense of the privates, the officers having won by a score of 15 to 12. Large crowds of visitors from all parts of the city yesterday visited the East Side hills, reservoir and park, and everyone's sister, cousin and aunt appeared to be out of doors enjoying the holiday. At the Congregational Church the main auditorium was filled to the limit of its seating capacity at the 11 o'clock service, conducted by J. H. Collins, assisted by the local clergy. The preacher handled his subject of "Thanks and Why We Should be Thankful" in a manner which greatly pleased his hearers, who followed the thread of his discourse with rapt attention. The clergymen who were on the platform and who assisted in the exercises were Rev. Rev. F. H. Tinker and Dr. Pendleton. Rev. W. W. Tinker and Rev. H. P. Case were also present, but occupied seats with the congregation.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Several Persons Injured in a Collision Between Buggies.

A serious accident occurred on Fifth street and Grand avenue at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. A. K. Crawford and a couple of her little nieces were out buggy driving, and as they turned into Fifth street from Grand avenue they were run into by a horse attached to a light buggy containing a man and woman. Both buggies were smashed up, and the occupants were thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. Crawford's right shoulder-bone was fractured, and she received a number of cuts and bruises about the head and shoulders. The little girls escaped without a scratch. The woman in the other buggy, whose name could not be learned, was injured but the man escaped. All the parties had a narrow escape from instant death.

Mr. Cleveland to Mr. Jones.

(Boston Journal.)

Mr. Cleveland is busy himself these days with writing ponderous notes of congratulation. We have quoted from his letter to the somewhat notorious Boss McLaughlin. A later effusion is a letter addressed to Gov. Boies, in which he expresses his satisfaction "that Iowa had really and in a deliberative way embraced Democracy." It was under the guise of free run and free silver that Democracy presented itself to the people of Iowa, and this is the victory which elicits Mr. Cleveland's warm congratulations.

Playing for High Stakes.

(Boston Journal.)

It is high stakes for which the New York Democrats are playing. If the desperate Hill-Cleveland-Tammany "combination" once gets possession of both branches of the Legislature there will be a gerrymander of the State by the side of which the infamous act of the Ohio Democracy will be an innocent and commendable proceeding. It is impossible that the State courts will give countenance to this great conspiracy.

A sheep breeder near Rochester, N. Y., yesterday bought a thoroughbred ram at a cost of $500, which was killed by a worthless cur. The town authorities awarded the farmer $6 as damages.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE TURKEY.

FOR THE ORPHANS.

Formal Dedication of the New Asylum.

A Public Institution That is a Credit to the State.

Impressive Services Witnessed by Thousands of People.

Blessing of the House by Bishop Mora—Addresses by Mayor Hazard and Other Well-known Citizens.

Yesterday was an important day in the annals of the Catholic Church, not only of Los Angeles but of all Southern California, in that it witnessed the dedication and consecration of one of the most magnificent public institutions in the State—the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum, which for the past two years has been in process of construction. The building occupies a commanding eminence on Boyle Heights overlooking the entire city, the river and the landscape for twenty miles beyond. The mountain peaks on the north and a distant view of San Pedro harbor and the shadowy heights of Catalina on the south complete a far-reaching and picturesque scene.

The style of the edifice is modern Gothic, built of brick with stone trimmings. It fronts 245 feet on Boyle avenue with a wing on the south side running 195 feet from east to west. It is of three stories, exclusive of the attic and basement, and a tower rises 145 feet from the main elevation crowned by a gilded cross. It is, without question, the most complete in its design and appointments of any public institution in the city. The rooms are all of generous proportions and the system of ventilation is according to the Moss approved method.

In the basement is the culinary department, arranged in the most perfect style of comfort and convenience. There is a spacious kitchen, a carving room, pantries, stored with an abundance of provisions, a large play room, and bath rooms with a wash room connecting, where the most systematic methods are observed. Each child has its own towel and wash cloth on its individual hook, its own shoe box and cake of soap, toothbrush, comb and other toilet appliances. Nothing has been overlooked. The laundry department, with all modern conveniences, is also in the basement.

On the first floor are the parlors and reception rooms on either side the broad entrance; eight class rooms, a study hall, recitation room, music room, bath, cloak and toilet rooms.

In the front of the second story is the chapel, where a beautiful altar in pure white marble and onyx rises at one end crowned with golden candlesticks. This is the gift of Mrs. Moore of Santa Barbara. On this floor are three dormitories, each little bed made up in snow-white linen. The children's infirmary is also here, and every comfort is provided for the sick little ones. Cozy rockers of small dimensions invite the young invalids to rest, and rugs cover the floors. A small dining-room and kitchen, where food for the sick is prepared, adjoins. There is also a pharmacy perfectly equipped, an office and toilet rooms.

The third floor is devoted entirely to sleeping apartments, being arranged in six dormitories. The attic is not yet divided into rooms. Every precaution has been taken to protect the building and its inmates from a conflagration. There is a large water tank in the main tower. Faucets and hose are abundantly supplied wherever needed.

The front entrance is of Sespe stone, ornamented with cherubs' heads, and the capitals of the columns are elaborately carved. The water table is also of Sespe stone, and the remainder of the trimmings are of pressed brick. The entire cost is estimated at about $180,000, about $70,000 of which remains to be paid. Grounds embracing twelve acres surround the building. There is capacity for 400 children and there are now 275 little folks sheltered there, including twenty-five small boys. These boys are under the care of seven Sisters of Charity. Children of all denominations are admitted. There is in connection with the institution a boarding and day school, where all the usual branches of a thorough English education are taught, besides the French, German and Spanish languages and music.

YESTERDAY'S EXERCISES.

The exercises yesterday were attended by thousands of people. A long line of equipages lined the inclosure of the grounds, and omnibuses met the cable cars at the junction of First street and Boyle avenue to convey the crowds of visitors to the asylum.

When the hour arrived for the opening of the dedicatory service the wide halls, the chapel and passage-ways were thronged with people. Shortly after 3 o'clock the exercises began, the first in order being the blessing of the house by Rt. Rev. Bishop Mora, who first bestowed his priestly blessing upon the beautiful altar in the chapel, passing from there to the main entrance of the building. The procession was one of the most imposing scenes of the day. It was led by Sister Josephine, followed by a long procession of young nuns in white veils, the priests in their robes, the Bishop and his attendants, preceded by the cross-bearer and acolytes bearing lighted tapers, the children chanting the litany as they went. Passing around the outside of the building and up the broad flight of granite steps the procession halted and the ceremony of blessing the entrance was gone through with, V. G. Father Adam sprinkling the holy water while the Bishop pronounced the blessing. Passing into the vestibule and through the spacious halls to the large study room the ceremony was repeated, and this completed the religious exercises of the day.

Seats had been reserved for the orphans, and presently they came trooping in to the music of a march played on pianos by four young misses, inmates of the asylum. There were nearly 300 children in line, ranging all the way in size from the tiny Kate Greenways and youngsters in kilts to the misses of 12 and 14, with medals suspended around their necks. A greeting chorus from the little wards, directed by Prof. Arevalo, preceded a graceful address of welcome by Miss Nellie McCoy.

The little ones, some fifty in number, sang a flower song, and concluded by distributing the tiny boutonnières each held to the distinguished guests on the platform.

The ceremony of raising the United States flag concluded the children's part of the service, three little misses, dressed respectively in red, white and blue, reciting appropriate verses and all the glad young voices uniting in the patriotic song, "Star Spangled Banner," as the magnificent flag was hoisted by the contractors of the building, Messrs. McNally & Grant.

ON THE PLATFORM.

The platform was occupied by Bishop Mora, the priests, Revs. Father Meyer, Adam, Hartnett, McCarthy, Libani, Stockmann, Mayor Hazard, ex-Mayor Workman, ex-Mayor Toberman, Messrs. A. Mullen, T. E. Rowan, A. H. Denker, Robert Steere, J. Broderick, J. Forster, J. M. Glass, John Kenaley, McGarry and others.

The children's exercises over, Rev. Father Stockmann of San Bernardino made the opening address, attributing great gratitude to God for the completion of the edifice and paying a beautiful tribute to the Sisters of Charity.

Mayor Hazard followed with one of his felicitous speeches, referring especially to the labors of Sister Scholastica, who, as a pioneer, witnessed the early struggles of her loved church in the little Spanish town of years ago, now grown to a populous city, and who has looked forward to the forming of this institution as the culmination of her plans.

The mere mention of the name of this devoted Sister called forth loud and prolonged applause, and when, a few moments afterward, Mr. Mullen, in his brief remarks, told of a little scene he had just witnessed in the chapel above—a venerable figure prostrate before the altar of God pouring forth her thanksgiving for the work now consummated, tears welled to many eyes. Sister Scholastica is now on the retired list of the sisterhood and has served so faithfully for forty years.

The final address was delivered by Rev. Father Meyer, who heartily thanked, in behalf of the sisters, the generous people who, irrespective of creed, nationality or politics, had contributed so liberally, in some way or other, to the completion of the grand work.

Especial mention should be made of the splendid services of Sister Josephine, the Mother Superior, to whose woman's brain and tact and skill are due many of the complete appointments of the interior of the building. From bath-rooms to culinary department may be traced that perfect order and the perfection of detail planned by a wise woman.

ASPHYXIATED BY GAS.

Death of a Well-known Italian Baker Yesterday Afternoon.

Frank Capitani, a native of Italy, 47 years of age, was found dead in his room in the Sentous Block yesterday morning, his death being due, apparently, to accidental asphyxiation.

The deceased, who was the proprietor of the Cosmopolitan bakery in the Sentous Block at No. 116 Upper Main street, was generally regarded by his countrymen as a most industrious man, but occasionally he relaxed from his arduous duties in the bakery. On Wednesday night he caroused with several boon companions until a late hour, retiring to his room over the bakery about 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

As it was customary for him to sleep until late in the day, owing to the fact that his duties in the bakery kept him up until late, no notice was taken of the fact that Capitani failed to make his appearance at the breakfast table yesterday morning. About 11 o'clock, however, a chambermaid, noticing a strong odor of gas in the hallway of the Sentous Block, traced it to Capitani's room, and upon receiving no reply to her summons raised an alarm. Another futile attempt being made to awake the inmate of the room, the door was forced open, and Capitani was found unconscious upon his bed. The room being filled with gas and the burner in the center being turned on, the natural inference was that Capitani had either blown out the light or accidentally turned it on again after he had extinguished it. An effort was made to resuscitate the unfortunate man, but without avail, and at 1:30 o'clock the Coroner was notified of his death.

Dr. Weldon being absent from the city the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Messrs. Garrett and Samson, where an inquest will be held this morning.

The deceased had resided in this city for the past sixteen years and was much respected by the Italian colonists.
